WORLD INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY ORGANIZATION

GENEVA

INFORMATION ON WIPO'S DEVELOPMENT COOPERATION ACTIVITIES (JANUARY 2000 – JUNE 2005)

prepared by the Secretariat

1. During the June 2005 session of the Inter-sessional Intergovernmental Meeting on a Development Agenda for WIPO (IIM), the Secretariat had indicated that it would provide information on the development cooperation activities carried out in the recent years. The present document provides a factual account of the activities carried out over the period January 2000 to June 2005. The annexes contain a listing of those activities, by country/territory/organization and by year, for easy reference for the reader wishing to know about the work done. The information contained in this document will form part of a larger database, which will be accessible on the WIPO website.

2. The cooperation for development program of WIPO aims at establishing or strengthening intellectual property offices or related institutions; providing legal advice and assistance; promoting indigenous innovative, inventive and creative activities; training government officials and representatives of the private sector; disseminating patent information and promoting awareness of intellectual property. These activities primarily seek to support developing countries and countries with economies in transition to maximize the use and effectiveness of IP as a tool for social, economic and cultural development. While implementing its programs, WIPO also bears in mind the United Nations (UN) Millennium Development Goals.

3. Over the past few years, however, there has been a major shift in the focus and priorities of these activities. While continuing the primary task of providing general legal and technical assistance to developing countries and countries with economies in transition, efforts have increasingly been made to assist countries in two priority areas. The first priority area is to help these countries to create intellectual property assets and realize real benefits from these assets. This shift in direction has taken place mainly in response to expressed needs and demands of Member States. The WIPO Economic Development Sector was established in early 2004 to reflect the emphasis put on the economic and development, including social, dimensions of intellectual property. It seeks to transform the economic development objectives of intellectual property into reality and to ensure that the countries concerned benefit from modern scientific and technological advances in the field of health, environment, communication and nutrition. Furthermore, in the past few years, specialized divisions have been geared to lay more stress on the development aspects, to steer it towards targeted results and to conduct analytical and research work. Some of these divisions are the WIPO Worldwide Academy; Traditional Knowledge Division; Least Developed Countries Division; Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises Division; Intellectual Property and Economic Development Division and the Intellectual Property and New Technologies Division.

4. The second priority area is in providing legal and general advice on using flexibilities in the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS Agreement) and WIPO treaties. With the conclusion of the TRIPS Agreement, many Member States requested WIPO to assist them in implementing TRIPS obligations, as well as other WIPO treaties. A number of Member States, engaged in bilateral or regional trade-related negotiations, also sought advice from WIPO on issues not contained in existing multilateral agreements. Furthermore, legislative and policy support was also directed at enabling policy-makers to make informed decisions on the use of options and flexibilities, available in the international legal framework, in their national policies and strategies. For this, developing countries and countries with economies in transition were also advised regarding accession to treaties, which support their public policy concerns and socio-economic development objectives, particularly in the field of public health, access to knowledge and education.

5. Activities under the different programs are identified in consultation with the Member States, cooperating institutions and the intended beneficiaries, and to the extent possible, experts, consultants and speakers are utilized from developing countries and countries with economies in transition. WIPO conducts human resource development activities and organizes meetings, seminars and workshops in Member States, at the request of the government or institution concerned and the program is finalized in consultation with them. The participants are encouraged to share their experiences and, at the end of the event, to evaluate the program. The evaluation exercise is useful in designing future activities. In order to optimize resources, activities and projects are coordinated with other bilateral, multilateral and international organizations, involved with intellectual property and economic development issues.

6. The tables in the annexes contain the following details on activities, taken up in accordance with the relevant program and budget, approved by the Member States for the period 2000 to June 2005.

(i) Meetings organized in different developing countries/countries with economies in transition/territory. These are meetings relating to different aspects of intellectual property.

The subject of the meeting, topics covered and the participation varied with the expressed needs. The information includes the names of the requesting authority; joint organizers; number of participants and countries represented (Annex 1).

(ii) Projects for automation of intellectual property offices. This includes advisory and technical services to assist these countries in utilizing appropriate information technologies; automation of business processes and administrative work of intellectual property offices; provision of technical advice; knowledge transfer for the execution and deployment of automation projects and training of intellectual property office staff. The information contains the names of the requesting authority; equipment supplied; software developed; number of missions undertaken to execute the project and number of staff members trained (Annex 1).

(iii) Expert Missions to Member States for specific tasks. The information contains the names of countries/territory where the experts were sent; purpose of the mission; the requesting authority and country of origin of the expert (Annex 1).

(iv) Study visits of officials. The information contains details relating to the names of the requesting authority and the subject of activity (Annex 1).

(v) Meetings organized at WIPO headquarters in Geneva. These are mainly activities relating to norm-setting; information technology projects; genetic resources, traditional knowledge and folklore; and cooperation for development. In the case of norm-setting activities, the objective of supporting the participation of these countries is to ensure that all relevant concerns are heard and taken into consideration. In order to facilitate the discussion process and to make it more broadly representative, WIPO finances the participation of some officials from developing countries and countries with economies in transition in such meetings. WIPO also finances the participation of officials from these countries to attend meetings seeking to develop an international consensus on intellectual property protection of traditional knowledge, traditional cultural expressions and on the IP aspects of genetic resources. The information in the Annex contains the number of sponsored officials, with the names of countries, who have attended meetings of the Standing Committee on Patents (SCP), Standing Committee on Copyright and Related Rights (SCCR), Standing Committee on Trademarks, Industrial Designs and Geographical Indications (SCT), Standing Committee on Information Technology (SCIT), Intergovernmental Committee on Genetic Resources, Traditional Knowledge and Folklore (IGCTKF) and the Permanent Committee on Cooperation for Development Related to Intellectual Property (PCIPD) (Annex 2).

(vi) Activities co-sponsored with and implemented in industrialized countries. This includes training and other programs organized by WIPO in partnership with different industrialized countries. The costs for these programs were jointly shared with these countries, which also hosted the activities (Annex 3).

(vii) Legislative advice provided to Member States. WIPO's legislative advice falls into four broad categories, namely, submission of draft laws to Member States; comments on draft laws prepared by Member States; legal advice in general; and advisory visits. Over the years, this legislative advice has moved from merely assisting WIPO and WTO developing country Members with implementation compliance with WIPO treaties and the TRIPS Agreement, to helping Members use the current international standards for promoting national goals of economic and social development, through the flexibilities which are available. Information relating to this advice has been provided in Annex 4. A few details relating to the names of the requesting authority, subject matter and number of missions undertaken to provide the advice are also contained in Annex 1.

(viii) Human Resources Development Activities. These are activities organized by the WIPO Worldwide Academy for teaching, training and research in intellectual property. The programs meet with the requirements of different target audiences – inventors and creators, business managers and IP professionals, policy makers and government officials of IP institutions, diplomats and representatives, students and teachers of intellectual property and the civil society. Information relating to the activities organized by the Academy is in Annex 5.

(ix) Activities implemented in Cooperation with Intergovernmental Organizations (IGOs) and Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs). These are mainly activities implemented in cooperation with IGOs and NGOs. In order to optimize use of resources and maximize the benefits of the synergies thus created, WIPO promotes interfacing with IGOs and NGOs involved with intellectual property and economic development issues. In a number of cases, memoranda of understanding (MOU) and cooperation agreements have been signed, institutionalizing cooperation between WIPO and IGOs. Information relating to the organization of such activities has been provided in Annex 6.
